

2nd March 2009

Hello Geoff Stray,

I have now read the section in your book about The Photon Band but I have not bothered to read the online links that you provided, because I have the first nine Kryon books. There are no messages about the Photon Band in these first nine books and in Kryon Bk 3, 'Alchemy of The Human Spirit' (1995), by Lee Carroll, there is a short section written by Lee Carroll actually commentating that there have been no messages from Kryon about the Photon Band, but Carroll does speculate about what happened.

Now, you have to realise that what Lee Carroll says is just his opinion and in this case, he suggests that humanity had just changed it's destiny and the dire predictions were voided. There is no attempt at a scientific explanation by Carroll for what happened. I have not attempted to go through all my metaphysical books of sources that I highly rate, but 'The Hathor Material' by Tom Kenyon (1995) talks about the fact we are in The Photon Band and The Hathors state the effects are highly overrated!

Please note, I did not mention 'The Photon Belt' in my book at all.

I have thought about your confusion over Tesla's discovery of radiant energy and it seems that you missed the point that Tesla found a way of extracting new energy from higher dimensions or the aether. Plasma can exist in our dimension and this is explained in my book in several places, but pg 105 has the section, 'What is a Spark?'

I can't understand why you have not checked the references in my book. A widely circulated interview by Mayan Elder Carlos Barrios is properly referenced in my book, Chapter Notes; chapter 3 no 21. The references to Bogart's Review is in the book, alongside a reference to John Major Jenkins book Galactic Alignment, see Chapter Notes; Chapter 3 no. 1. The 'obscure' quote that I am referring to is at the end of Chapter 7 of my book, by Edgar Conrow about the Pineal Gland, which is directly related to the chapter 'Balancing in Chaos'. Chapter Notes; Chapter 7 no. 23. Any references to Jenkins are in the index, which is the first place most people would check. Have you not got a copy of the book anymore?

Most reasonable people would understand that many authors would get annoyed when accusations are made like, "there is no evidence she has read either book", referring to Jenkins' research. The situation then becomes even worse when it becomes obvious that the person is making a false accusation, because they have not properly checked the facts.

Finally, I find your assertion that you were 'defending' my research on Amazon.co.uk quite strange, because I certainly did not get that impression and especially because it took me many months to find the review.

Regards,
Susan Joy Rennison

how to work with the diamond energy fields is proprietary information, yet you tried to make-out that it "all boiled down to" a short meditation, when I made it clear that it was "NOT the best way to spiritually evolve". Really, really annoying....

My book was originally intended for energy practitioners working with the diamond light body with an integration of science and metaphysics that supported their work. By the way, I made it clear the diamond energy field was a 'layer of light' but you claimed that I stated the diamond light body would replace the aura. There is no such statement in the book, however since I wrote my book, others are making this claim.

In your reviews, your interpretation is presented as my research and your comment about Tesla is a good example. NOWHERE did I state that Tesla first discovered plasma. As I stated in my book, the term plasma was coined by Irving Langmuir in the early 20th century. Before his work, this research field was called electrical discharges in low-pressure gases. As I stated elsewhere in the book, scientists were working with electrical discharges in the 19th century and a host of them won Nobel Prizes for their work. Hence it is not possible to claim that Tesla discovered plasma, which is something I was not foolish enough to attempt. By the way, if scientists win Nobel Prizes for their work, maybe we can assume that this field of research is no longer deemed as "fringe science".

Your need to discredit channelled material by referencing Kryon and the Photon Band in your email is pathetic. Please reference the material in my book about photons and then understand what is happening in our region of space which has become highly magnetised, according to Russian sources with "magnetised strip structures and striations". I'll give you a clue, the visible universe is 99.999% plasma.

As much as you dislike channelled material, military and scientific sources now recognise that we are not alone and plasma "entities" with "life-like" properties are a reality. Hence, when the source of channelled information identifies himself as a "magnetic master", and then provides enough information to identify himself as a plasma entity, (plasma is the only naturally occurring magnet on Earth besides magnetite. FACT. Then we have crossed over to another level of understanding of our reality. Rather major really.

This is all very relevant as in the last month or so people in the UK are reporting "orbs with tentacles" (wind-farm incident) and "jelly-fish" in the skies over London. However, the same kind of reports can be found ALL OVER THE WORLD. I identified in my book, self-published in September 2006 and placed in the National Archives in November 2007, a two way traffic of plasma entities and it looks like things have accelerated and are about to get surreal.

Thus, since my book was written, I have clarified my position on my www.susanrennison.com website by identifying that we are now experiencing a planetary refresh of plasma energies. We are clearly witnessing magnetospheric plasmoids arriving and an exodus of plasma entities that are being forced out of the Earth. Again, rather major news, but not alluded to in your reviews.

Hence, the 2012 bandwagon that you are part of, has failed to predict major aspects of what would happen by the "overturning of space-time". Yet, as I tried to explain in my book, space-time is a multi-dimensional plasma or normally referred to as the ether/aether.

I did not include a proper reference for the Serpent Rope, but I thought it was commonly understood that this was one of the main Mayan prophecies. I believe that I picked this information up from articles written by William Henry but it will be obvious by the exact phrases that were used in the book, the absence of this reference can be considered as an oversight, but there were approximately 750 references in all and many others that were left out as I often choose to only usually cite one or two sources.

Whatever, the EEJ/Serpent Rope is another Space Weather and plasma phenomena, the scientific explanation and recent animations must be considered in context with a 'New Age dominated by space or the aether'. I did not emphasise 'Serpent' mythology because the book was already too long and there are enough esoteric books from many different traditions that detail what will happen at the 'End of An Age' [2012], when energy is sent from the galactic center to generate enlightenment on Earth. Guess what? It's clearly happening now.

Thus, after I published, I found out about the book, 'The Pillar of Celestial Fire' by Robert Cox, published in 1997, which I found to be a brilliant assessment of what will happen as we enter a New Golden Age. What's more, his assessment of the delivery rates of evolutionary energy is in line with other metaphysical sources, which I found most gratifying. This now appears to link up with predictions issued by NASA due to the massive breach in the Earth's magnetic field.

You choose to sabotage my work by emphasising about 15 pages of channelled material out of 300 pages, not including references and notes. What's more [most of] the information is about electromagnetic units which are the foundation of consciousness. The most respected scientist Candace Pert (robbed of a Nobel Prize by the action of male superiors, does that sound like fringe science to you?), in her work with the 'Molecules of Emotions' quoted in my book, recognises that our emotions originate from higher dimensional space. Thus your ignorant denigration is especially insulting since I made a logical connection with Pert's assessment, with the information from the most highly respected Seth Material which links emotions with electromagnetic units. Since the Seth Material is archived at Yale University and has many books devoted to analysing the scientific information and has reportedly sold over 8 million copies, (this is old information so this figure is probably way out of date now), I think I had a right to make the association. The Kryon channelling is now becoming equally respected and hence why I went to the trouble to explain why Lee Carroll has been invited to channel at the United Nations on many occasions. Don't you think folks at the United Nations maybe more privy to what's really going on than you?

I have letters from the Agency for the Legal Deposit Libraries requesting 5 copies of my book dated 14/11/07 and a thank you letter acknowledging receipt dated 30/11/07. References 4732963/dl & 4732963/ri signed by S. P. Richardson. The Telephone no. is 020 7388 5061 Email; publisher.enquiries@aldl.ac.uk.

I note your 'good guy' accounting, but as anyone who has studied the psychology of 'the games people play' would understand, your 'help', has been far outweighed by the obvious attempts to undermine my efforts. Quite frankly, your reviews were a terrible representation of my book and you only have your self to blame if you feel 'victimised'.

Best regards,
